Purpose of the Tribunal roles structure diagram:

Please note that this diagram is purely a demonstration of roles and jurisdictions within the Tribunals Judiciary and not of career progression. The diagram does however, commence with the most entry-level roles at the bottom of the page and ends with the most senior role towards the top.

What is the difference between a Fee-Paid and a Salaried role?

Candidates applying for Salaried positions are expected to possess adequate previous experience in a relevant judicial field. It is important to note that demonstrating previous judicial experience may not be necessary in extraordinary situations. Directly relevant experience is defined as serving as a judge in a Salaried or Fee-Paid capacity. For Fee-Paid judges, this requirement necessitates a minimum of two years or thirty sitting days since judicial appointment.

What are the progression routes through the non-legal roles?

Unfortunately, there are no progression routes for non-legal roles; these are stand-alone roles.

What is the significance of the ‘Courts Judiciary’ diagram on the far-right hand side?

The diagram on the right-hand side is an indication of the equivalent role in the Courts Judiciary – please note that this list is not exhaustive. To view the full structure of the Courts and Tribunals system, please see here.

How frequently do the JAC host competitions for roles?

The frequency of competitions can range from once a year to once every two years. You can find a list of all the live vacancies at JAC, here.

Please refer to the table below for the specific frequency of each competition run by the JAC.
